THE TANK

Where five-time Olympic gold medalist Johnny Weissmuller once plied the swimming lanes, the former Chicago Athletic Association’s pool area - dubbed “The Tank” by club members - has been transformed into a one-of-a-kind venue. The Tank is a semi-private event space tucked beneath an elegant mezzanine balcony. In keeping with the nostalgia of the club, the original pool tile that once welcomed swimmers is still intact, and the room

TINKERS, EVERS & CHANCE BOARDROOMS

Tinker, Evers & Chance boardrooms offer traditional executive and a historic Chicago can-do spirit for smaller groups. These meeting rooms can accommodate group sizes from 8 to 30, with the option of being reserved individually, or as a roster of three. The spaces are affectionately named to honor the three men to whom the Chicago Cubs owe their World Series title win in 1908.

STAGG COURT

Named for original club member and University of Chicago Coach A.A. Stagg, Stagg Court is the original gymnasium and basketball court, transformed into a multipurpose stadium, marrying the whimsical nostalgia of the court’s past to its present-day events function. Stagg Court’s original gym flooring is restored beneath the vintage running track encircling the room from one story above. In homage to the past, two vintage basketball hoops hang above, similar to those that once adorned the court.

WHITE CITY BALLROOM

Lit by floor-to-ceiling windows that open directly onto Park, the White City Ballroom is a breathtaking expression of Chicago grandeur. The space is lined by three colossal 19th century fireplaces carved with oak bas-relief, original stained glass and a ceiling of 167 ‘stalactite’ embellishments and light fixtures, as well as a painstakingly restored Carrera marble floor.

MADISON BALLROOM

The Madison Ballroom invites gueststo experience the sophistication of Chicago’s central business district with floor-to-ceiling windows that look onto the Chicago “Loop” cityscape underneath the glow of three chandeliers. Builders artfully returned the Madison Ballroom to its original color scheme and carefully restored the room’s millwork, stained glass, and original walnut parquet flooring.
